Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

BAYARDSTOWN STEEL WORKS

PITTSBURGH, PA.

THE public are respectfully informed that these works, under the late firm of S. Broadmeadow & Co., are now continued in operation by S. Broadmeadow, to whom all orders are requested to be directed.

S. Broadmeadow, having had much experience in England, in the manufacturing of this article, has succeeded in making from the American Iron, in Pittsburgh, Steel of equal quality to that imported, to the entire satisfaction of those friends who have favored him with their orders.

Part of the steel made by him has the brand of P. Shoenberger, and subsequently of P. Shoenberger & Son: but as those gentlemen are about to commence the same business, the iron manufacturer's name will in future be discontinued, and the steel manufacturer's name labeled on the bar.

It is considered quite unnecessary, at this date, to say any thing more than to observe that three years' experience has fixed its value, and thirteen of the most respectable scientific mechanics of this city have testified to this, through the medium of the public papers, two years ago. Nov 25

Pittsburgh Seminary

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

South East Corner of Grant & Second Sts.

THE want of a permanent institution, located in the city, in which females should receive a useful and finished education, seems long to have been deeply felt by the inhabitants of this flourishing and wealthy city.

From the frequent and earnest solicitations of her friends, Miss Parry has, at length, undertaken to establish and carry into effective operation an Institution calculated, not only to supply the deficiency for which it is more immediately intended, but to offer such advantages as may render it worthy the patronage of the intelligent citizens of neigboring places.

The object of this seminary is, to inculcate sound principles, inform the mind, refine the taste, and form the character; to effect this, there will be a strict and well-ordered system of government as well as of instruction: for little can be accomplished in the great business of education without efficient regulations and good order.

The building is spacious and handsomely situated in the most elevated and healthy part of the city, commanding a fine view of the Monongahela, and the adjacent hills. It is sufficiently central for the convenience of day scholars, and yet retired from the noise of business.

In the English department the branches are Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Grammar, Composition, Geography, and Astronomy, with the use of the Globes, History, Chronology, Botany, Chymistry, Rhetoric, Natural and Moral Philosophy.

English branches,	$8 00 per qr.
(Each qr. to consist of 12 weeks.)
Music,	10 00
French,	8 00
Drawing in pencil, crayon, and water colors,	8 00
Oil Painting,	10 00

Boarding and tuition, including all the branches, two hundred dollars per annum. Each pupil must be supplied, by the parent or guardian, with a mattress, bedding, towels, combs, brushes, soap, and silver cup, table and tea spoon, with the initials of the name engraved on each. Each pupil required to repair and keep her own clothes in good order. Washing, stationery, &c. are extras. No charge made for the summer vacation, commencing on the twenty-third of July, and terminating on the thirty-first of August. No pupil engaged for a shorter period than two quarters; first quarter to be paid in advance. One month's notice to be given previous to withdrawing a pupil.

The Rev. Dr. Bruce, President of the Western University, and Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in that Institution, will give lectures on Astronomy. Competent masters are engaged for the different branches.

POETRY.

The Mind and other Poems.—BY C. SWAIN.

LAST WORDS OF LORD BYRON.

"I must sleep now."—Byron.

The splendor of the Poet's lyre,
The eloquence of fame,
The spirit's intellectual fire,
The glory and the name,
The eagle wing that leaves behind
The proud stars in its flight,
The power—the energy—the mind
Unutterably bright.

The heart that sheds its own bright hues,
And sings its own sweet strain;
Imagination's gorgeous views,
(That rainbow of the brain!)
Are all but transcripts of one truth,
Reflections of one ray,
And speak to man, and hint to youth,
Of future dust—decay!

Sleep—with thy glory round thy head—
Far from the grasp of wrong;
Sleep! mightiest of the mighty dead,
Thou idolized of Song!
Sleep!—thou hast won a living tomb,
Within the heart's warm core:
Nor grief, nor care, nor blight, nor gloom,
Shall ever reach thee more!

I fling my young song like a leaf,
On Time's disastrous stream:
To find existence frail and brief,
The record of a dream;
But earth shall be a thing forgot—
Existence but a name—
When British hearts remember not
Thy genius and thy fame!

Sleep!—in thy majesty alone—
No earthly shroud is thine;
Sleep!—with a kingdom for thy throne
With Nature for thy shrine!
Sleep! till the Voice of Ages wake
The glorious and the brave;
Sleep! till Eternity shall break
The slumber of the grave!

THE PLAYTHINGS.—BY MISS GOULD.

Oh! mother, here's the very top,
That brother used to spin;
The vase with seeds I've seen him drop
To call our robin in;
The line that held his pretty kite,
His bow, his cup, and ball,
The slate on which he learned to write,
His feather, cap, and all!

"My dear, I'd put the things away,
Just where they were before:
Go, Anna, take him out to play,
And shut the closet door.
Sweet innocent! he little thinks
The slightest thought expressed
Of him that's lost, how deep it sinks
Within a mother's breast!"

CONGRESSIONAL.

April 25.—In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Frelinghuysen introduced a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury, to compromise with the trustees of the late firm of Thomas H. Smith & Son, which was read twice, and referred. Mr. Hayne, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill for the relief of Thomas Chapman, which was ordered to a second reading. Several bills from the House were reported from the various Committees, with and without amendments. A communication from the Department of State, accompanying the usual appropriation of Navy Registers, was laid before the Senate by the Chair. Mr. Chambers and Mr. Clayton presented petitions, which were referred. The General Appropriation Bill was then taken up. The motion of Mr. Forsyth to reconsider the vote by which the Senate had decided to strike out the amendment increasing the appropriation for the contingent expenses of the Judiciary Department, from 190,000 dollars, to 250,000 dollars, was agreed to—Ayes 24. A motion to increase the appropriation to 250,000 was then made and negatived—Ayes 16, Noes 26.

An amendment moved by Mr. Ellis, re-appropriating 15,000 dollars, formerly appropriated for removing a bar in the Mississippi; and another of a similar character, moved by Mr. Mangum, were agreed to. On motion of Mr. Miller, the clause giving authority to the President to contract for a statue of George Washington, was stricken out, principally on the ground of the manner in which it had been introduced into the bill. The amendments to the bill were then ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read a third time. Mr. Foot made an unsuccessful motion to take up the Pension Bill. The bill to extend the benefits of vaccination to the Indians, was reported with an amendment to increase the appropriation from 6,000 to 12,000 dollars, and taken up for consideration. The amendment was agreed to. The bill was ordered to be read a third time, Ayes 31, Nays 10. Mr. Poindexter gave notice that he should to-day introduce a joint resolution to authorize the President to contract for a pedestrian statue of George Washington. On motion of Mr. Webster, the Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the Apportionment Bill. It was understood that the bill should be taken up as soon as the morning business should be got through.

In the House of Representatives, the whole of the sitting of yesterday was occupied in the further hearing of the case of alleged breach of privilege by Samuel Houston. All the witnesses present were examined before the sitting closed, and neither party proposed to introduce any other, tho' it was intimated as possible that some other might be introduced. When the evidence was closed, Mr. Stanberry said, if it was the pleasure of the House to go into the further examination of the contemplated fraud as charged by him, he was ready to introduce evidence which would, in his opinion, place the truth of the charge beyond doubt. Whereupon Mr. Polk expressed a hope that the House would not further pursue that inquiry in this form, pledging himself, however, if no other member did so, to institute an inquiry by the House into the whole matter, with a belief that it would result in the acquittal of all persons charged as being concerned in an intention to defraud the Government.

The further hearing of the case was then postponed to this day at 11 o'clock, when the accused will be heard in his defence by his Counsel, should no other testimony be then introduced.—Nat. Int.

April 26.—Yesterday, in the Senate, on motion of Mr. Webster, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Apportionment bill. Mr. Webster explained the amendment reported in blank by the Select Committee, and indicated his desire to take the question on striking out the bill from the House, and inserting the bill of the Committee, in order to adopt or reject the principle of the amendment, leaving the question as to numbers to be afterwards decided. The Senate was then addressed by Mr. Dallas, Mr. Clayton, Mr. Dickerson, and Mr. Hill, when the question was taken on the amendment of the Committee, and decided as follows:

Yeas.—Messrs. Bell, Benton, Buckner, Chambers, Clayton, Dickerson, Ewing, Foot, Hayne, Holmes, Johnston, Knight, Miller, Moore, Prentiss, Robbins, Seymour, Silsbee, Smith, Sprague, Waggaman, Webster—25.

Nays.—Messrs. Brown, Clay, Dallas, Dudley, Ellis, Forsyth, Frelinghuysen, Grundy, Hendricks, Hill, Kane King, Mangum, Marcy, Robinson, Tazewell, Tipton, Tomlinson, Troup, Tyler, White, Wilkins—22.

The numbers being equal, the Vice President stated that, after having paid the utmost attention to the debate, he had come to the conclusion that the bill as it came from the House, was unconstitutional, and he should therefore feel constrained, under a sense of the deep responsibility of his situation, to give his vote in favor of the amendment. The amendment was therefore decided in the affirmative by the casting vote of the Chair.

The question was then taken on filling the blank for the number of Representatives with 256, and decided in the negative—Ayes 19, Noes 22. The question was then taken on filling the blank with 251, and decided in the affirmative—Ayes 27, Noes 14. Mr. Webster then moved to fill the other blanks as follows.

Maine,	8	North Carolina,	13
New Hampshire,	6	South Carolina,	10
Massachusetts,	13	Georgia,	9
Rhode Island,	2	Kentucky,	13
Connecticut,	6	Tennessee,	13
Vermont,	6	Ohio,	20
New York,	40	Louisiana,	4
New Jersey,	7	Indiana,	7
Pennsylvania,	28	Alabama,	6
Delaware,	2	Missouri,	3
Maryland,	9	Mississippi,	2
Virginia,	21	Illinois,	3

The motion was agreed to. The bill was then reported to the Senate, and ordered to be read a third time by a vote of 23 to 20. Mr. Poindexter introduced a joint resolution, authorising the President to have executed a full length statue of General Washington.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Doddridge reported a bill to declare the assent of Congress to an act of the legislature of Maryland, passed at their last session, to amend the Charter of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company; and, on motion of Mr. White, of Florida, the Committee on Commerce was instructed to inquire into the expediency of extending the right of debenture to merchandise imported into Key West, Florida, from other foreign ports, but entitled, at the time of importation, to debenture.

The case of Samuel Houston, brought to the bar of the House on a charge of breach of its privilege, again came on, and consumed the whole day. Mr. Doddridge having moved to postpone the further hearing of this case to Friday next, in connection with a motion for printing the testimony, Mr. Stanberry took occasion to state that there was testimony, material to his character, yet behind; testimony which would go to contradict the testimony already given by Mr. Buckner, in all the circumstances of it which were calculated to injure his character or cast ridicule upon him; and that testimony he was prepared now to introduce.—Upon which Mr. Doddridge withdrew for the present his motion for postponement. Mr. Jonathan Elliot, Jr. who saw the rencontre, was then examined, and after him Mr. Blair, a member of that House from Tennessee. Mr. Stanberry then called to the stand, as a witness, Mr. Duff Green of this city, who being sworn, Mr. Stanberry proposed to the witness the following interrogatory: 'What knowledge have you of the late Secretary of War attempting to give to Governor Houston a contract for the supply of Indian rations in 1830?'

This question being objected to, gave rise to a wide debate.

Mr. Stanberry then modified it so as to read, 'Do you know of an attempt on the part of Gov. Houston fraudulently to obtain from the late Secretary of War, a contract, &c.?' The question on putting this interrogatory was finally determined in the negative, by Yeas and Nays, 124 to 49.

Mr. Stanberry then said he considered this vote as an indication of the indisposition of the House to pursue any further the inquiry into the alleged attempted fraud, and he should therefore put no further questions to this witness, and desired the subpœnas which he had asked for to be countermanded.

Some further examinations took place; when, after 5 o'clock, the further hearing of the case was postponed to Thursday at 11 o'clock.—National Intelligencer.

April 27.—In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Smith, from the Committee on Finance, reported a bill from the House to remit the duties on articles imported in the brig ——, without amendment; also, a bill from the House for the relief of Nathaniel Blake, and a bill from the House for the relief of Alexander Brodie, both without amendment, but indicating that they would be opposed when called up. Mr. Brown, from the Committee of Claims, reported a bill from the House for the relief of Lieut. I. L. Gordon, without amendment. On motion of Mr. Hayne, the Committee on Naval Affairs were discharged from the further consideration of the petition of Michael Hogan, and the petitioner had leave to withdraw his petition. Mr. Benton presented the memorial of certain citizens of Pittsburgh against the re-chartering of the United States Bank. Mr. Smith gave notice that he should to-day call up the bill to authorize a subscription to the stock of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Frelinghuysen laid on the table a resolution, referring it to the Committee on the Library, relative to the purchase of Peale's original portrait of General Washington, to be placed in the Senate Chamber. The resolution offered by Mr. Dickerson on the previous day, relative to frauds in sugar, on its introduction in the shape of syrups, was agreed to. The Senate agreed to the unfavorable report made yesterday by Mr. Hayne, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, in the case of Samuel Grice. The joint resolution offered by Mr. Poindexter, relative to the construction of a pedestrian statue of George Washington, was taken up for a second reading, but, in consequence of the absence of Mr. Poindexter, was laid on the table. Mr. Dallas, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill for the relief of Gen. Wm. McPherson, which was read, and ordered to a second reading. Mr. Dallas also presented a memorial on the subject of the Indians. The apportionment bill was then taken up for its third reading. The yeas and nays being called for by Mr. Tazewell, there appeared yeas 20, nays 18—so the bill was passed. The Senate, then, on motion of Mr. Marcy, proceeded to the consideration of Executive business.

In the House of Representatives, on motion of Mr. Root, the Committee of the Whole was discharged from the further consideration of the resolutions proposing amendments of the Constitution of the United States in relation to the election of President and Vice President of the United States, and they were referred to a Select Committee.

After some other minor business—

Mr. Ashley, of Missouri, submitted the following resolution for adoption:

"William Stanberry, a Member of the House from the state of Ohio, having, on yesterday, (when not giving evidence,) declared to this House that the most of the testimony given by the Hon. Alexander Buckner, Senator from Missouri, (who had given testimony in the case of the trial against Samuel Houston,) was destitute of truth, and infamous; which declaration of said Stanberry is indecorous, and disrespectful in the House, the witness, and the Senate, of which he is a member;

"Therefore, Resolved, That the Speaker of this House call up the said Stanberry in his place, to retract the indignity and disrespect which he has offered, by an apology to this House; and that he be reprimanded by the Speaker."

In explaining the object of the resolution, Mr. Ashley observed, that in offering this resolution to the House of Representatives, he did it in no spirit of unkind feeling towards Mr. Stanberry. His feeling towards him and towards the accused in this unfortunate trial, were the same. The object he had in view was to do justice, not to the character of the Senator from Missouri merely, but also to the State. The remarks of Mr. Stanberry, as he apprehended, in striking at the Senator, struck at the character of the state of Missouri.

Mr. Taylor, of New York, demanded the question of consideration, which, on the motion of Mr. Speight, was decided by yeas and nays; and the House determined now to consider the same, by a large majority—147 to 11.

Mr. J. Q. Adams said, that he wished to ask a question of the Speaker relating to a point of order, viz: Whether, according to parliamentary usage, words spoken by a member in Debate can be made subject to the action of the House after one day shall have elapsed since they were spoken.

The Speaker said that, whatever might be the precedent in the case, that was a point for the House to determine; and the House had just voted that it would now consider the subject of the resolution.

Mr. Stanberry having obtained the floor, said that he wished to get the floor to say that no member of the House could possibly be more sensible than he himself was of the indecorum, in a parliamentary view, of the expressions which he had yesterday used in reference to Mr. Buckner. And, even before he had consulted with his friends on the subject, he had of himself determined, on reflection, to apologize to the House for that indecorum, committed under the influence of highly excited feelings. He might be allowed, he presumed, to state some of the circumstances of provocation which induced him to believe that Mr. Buckner entertained a prejudiced feeling against him. They were, that Mr. Buckner was, as appeared by his own evidence, present during the whole time of the assault upon him; that he knew that an assault would take place, before it did; that he was silent during the transaction; and, though he thought that he (Mr. S.) was killed, or nearly so, permitted Houston to proceed with the assault. That it had been told to him (Mr. S.) that immediately after the assault, he (Mr. B) had seized every opportunity to relate the occurrence, with such coloring as to cast ridicule or reflect discredit upon him; that he had observed, yesterday, that Mr. Buckner seemed to take pleasure in adding circumstances and expressions still further tending that way. In what he said yesterday, he (Mr. S.) had not intended to deny the truth of the greater part of the facts and circumstances narrated by Mr. B., for they coincided with his own, and even made the assault more violent than he (Mr. S.) had supposed it. But, as he was a member of the Senate, Mr. S. now regretted that he had used the expressions which he did towards Mr. Buckner, and felt it to be his duty to apologize to the House, to the gentleman from Missouri, to the Senate, and even to Mr. Buckner himself, for having used them.

Upon this, Mr Ashley, apparently considering the apology as sufficient, withdrew the resolution.

Mr. Cave Johnson then said, that he considered it due to Mr. Buckner, that Mr. Benton should yet be examined, to see if he would give that character to Mr. Buckner for veracity, which had been implied by Mr. Stanberry's allusion to him.

Mr. Ashley said, he had in his hand a paper, signed by Mr. Benton, in reference to that matter, which he wished to have read.

Mr. Kerr objected to the reception of such a paper, as being informal, and contrary to all the principles of law, justice, and reason.

Mr. Thompson, of Ga., expressed his hope that the gentleman from Tennessee would insist on his motion to have Mr. Benton examined.

Mr. Johnson did insist upon the motion.

Mr. Stanberry explained, that he had now no wish to call upon Mr. Benton to testify against the other Senator from Missouri.

After some further observations from Mr. Johnson and Mr. Wilde, the question being upon receiving the paper, the reading of it was called for, and the House determined that it should be read. And it was then read as follows:

"Mr. Stanberry's reference to me as a witness who would discredit Mr. Buckner, was made without my knowledge, and was not warranted by any sentiment ever entertained or expressed by me.

THOS. H. BENTON."

Mr. Stanberry said, that he did not pretend to say that there ever had been any such expression on the part of Mr. Benton, nor did he know what the evidence of Mr. Benton would be when he signified his intention to have him summoned. What he said on that subject was said under the influence of the same excitement as that under which he had made the other remarks concerning Mr. Buckner.

Mr. C. Johnson, considering the reading of the paper, as superseding the examination of Col. Benton, withdrew the motion to have him called as a witness.

The evidence then was closed.

F. S. Key, Esq. the Counsel for the accused, opened the defence in an eloquent and impressive manner, and spoke about two hours, when he suspended his argument, at the request of Mr Patton, on whose motion further proceedings were postponed till to-morrow: and the House adjourned.

Diminution of the heat from the surface of the earth upwards.

Although this fact is very generally known and acknowledged, the cause of it is not very obvious. An observer at the equator, in the middle of a sultry summer's day, might perhaps imagine that if he were to ascend into the atmosphere, directly towards the sun, it would grow warmer the farther he proceeds. It is not, however, the fact. Whether he mounts in a balloon or ascends a mountain, he finds the cold increases as he leaves the surface of the earth, until he arrives at a region of perpetual ice and snow. The cause is this.

Suppose we take a sponge, compress it slightly with the hand, and pour upon it as much water as it will receive. While it is now dripping with the surplus, release the pressure. The pores will immediately open, they will be more than sufficient to absorb the water, so that the sponge in its expanded state, will be comparatively empty. So if the experiment is reversed. If a sponge is moderately wet, while in its expanded state, and afterwards compressed with the hand, it will be found that it cannot retain the water which at first it received.

Now the air is the sponge, compressed near the surface of the earth by the load of atmosphere which is above it; and the heat which it contains is represented by the water, which was abundant in the compressed, and scarcely perceptible in the expanded sponge. If a portion of this air, thus compressed at the surface of the earth, and containing an abundance of heat, rises, it expands, and occupies a larger and larger space; the quantity of heat, therefore, which it contains, is diffused over a greater space, and consequently will produce less sensible effects. In the same manner, if a portion of the air, in an elevated region, having a moderate quantity of heat diffused throughout it, should descend, it will become compressed as it approaches the surface, and the heat which it contains, which before occupied a great space, will now be condensed into a small one, and will produce more sensible effects. In other words, the air will become warmer. These motions of the air, ascending and descending, are continually taking place, and they keep up a constant difference in temperature of the higher and lower regions.

Arnott, in his interesting work on Physical Philosophy, makes the following remarks:—'Persons not understanding the law which we are now illustrating, will express surprise that wind or air blowing down upon them from a snow-clad mountain should still be warm and temperate. The truth is, that there is just as much heat combined with an ounce of air on the mountain top as in the valley; but above, the heat is diffused through a space perhaps twice as great as when below, and therefore is less sensible. It may be the same air which sweeps over a warm plain at the side of a mountain; which then rises and freezes water on the summit,—and which in an hour after, or less, is playing among the flowers of another valley, as a warm and gentle breeze.'

It appears, from a Parliamentary return, that the amount expended for the relief of the poor in England and Wales, during last year, was £6,798,888 18. The total amount of Poor Rate raised was £8,279,217 14; but the difference was appropriated for other purposes. This is an enormous amount, and yet it proved insufficient; and, taken into consideration with the extent of the emigration to other countries, it affords a melancholy picture of the state of Great Britain. The returns for 1832 will probably be of a still more melancholy description, in consequence of the stagnation produced by the cholera restrictions.—London Courier.

Report of the Cholera in the West Indies.—The following is an extract from the Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce. It merits attention.

ST. THOMAS, April 7th.

Letters received here yesterday from St. Kitts, state that an English ship of war had arrived there from Barbadoes, with the Cholera on board.—Twenty-five cases occurred in three days, but none of them had as yet proved fatal.—Poulson.

RATES OF INTEREST.

INTEREST IN ENGLAND.

A. D. 1255, Edward I.	50	per cent.
" 1306, Edward II.	45	"
" 1516, Henry VIII.	10	"
" 1604, James I.	£9	16 per cent.
" 1610, James I.	8	0 "
" 1660, Charles II.	6	0 "
" 1714, Anne.	5	0 "

The legal rate is still 5 per cent.

A labored investigation in England, applied to a period of the last forty years, has established the fact, that the average actual or market rate of interest for that period, was 4½ per cent. on securities of the highest credit in the kingdom.

In many of the continental states of Europe, the actual rate of interest on the best security, is said to be lower than in England. The legal rate throughout the continent varies from 4 to 6 per cent.; there are few penalties to guard the legal rate, and where they do exist they are not generally respected.

In France interest is limited to five per cent. on such securities as mortgages, and six on commercial transactions; but by a bonus paid beforehand, and not forbidden, money is raised to its market value, and the law rendered nugatory.

In Holland, if there be any statute against usury, it is obsolete, and the price of money varies with the market.

In Hamburgh—the common law of the German empire is six per cent., but it is not applied to commercial transactions. The bill market is free. The rate of interest on accounts between merchants is generally five per cent.; but discount varies greatly.

Frankfort—Five per cent. on real security, but on bills, no limit.

Bremen—No limit.

Russia—Legal rate six per cent.; but the law constantly evaded. The Imperial Bank at Petersburgh discounts at a rate fixed every fortnight.

Austria—Legal rate six per cent. on real estate, but on bills unlimited.

Prussia—Five per cent. on real property, but unlimited on personal security.

Trieste—Six per cent, but on bills either legally or practically free.

Leghorn—Six per cent. between merchants on accounts, but no law regulating interest on commercial transactions.

Genoa—Legal rate four per cent., but left free to individual agreement.

Spain—Six per cent. between merchants, but money is free.

Portugal—The ancient and close ally of England, has usury laws, but they are evaded by means of a bonus or premium.

In New England and Pennsylvania, the legal rate of interest is six per cent.

In New Hampshire and Pennsylvania, the securities are not made void, and securities for the payment of money may be purchased at any discount, without incurring the penalty of usury.

In Rhode Island, only the interest is forfeited; the principal is recoverable, and the statute is seldom if ever enforced.

In Missouri the legal rate of interest is six per cent., but the parties may contract for ten, and if more be exacted the interest is forfeited.

In Illinois there is no statute regulating the price of money.

Kentucky adopted the English statute with all its penal provisions; but has abolished it, (in 1819,) and substituted one fixing the rate of interest without penalties. The principal and legal interest can now be recovered under any circumstances.

Ohio tried a usury statute with rigorous penalties for 20 years, (from 1804 to 1824,) then repealed it, and enacted another, merely fixing a rate of interest, but imposing no forfeiture.

Alabama, after thirteen years trial of a statute against usury, fixing a rate of interest lower than her neighbors, Louisiana and Mississippi, changed it for one without restrictions.

This inquiry might be extended farther, with a similar result. It has been indulged to an extent sufficient to illustrate the fact, that the opinion and the action of the whole civilized world, are in favor of relaxation in the legal provisions affecting the price and the use of money.

In New England and Pennsylvania, the actual rate of interest is from 5 to 6 per cent.

In the city of New York it is more fluctuating, and a shade higher. The loans in that city on bond and mortgage, from March 1830, to February 1831, both inclusive, amount to $6,616,642, at an average interest of about 6¼ per cent. The rate of interest at which loans are made on personal security, are much more fluctuating; they are often made at four and five per cent., whereas at this time 9 to 10 per cent., is readily obtained on the best personal security.

In the interior of New York state, the actual rate of interest does not vary much from the legal rate.

In the new States south and west, the actual or market rate of interest is generally from 8 to 10 per cent.; and the amount to be obtained at those rates, not equal to their wants.

STEAM BOAT NEWS.

DEPARTED—April 29, Marksman, Courier; 30, Nile; May 1, Companion; 2, Signal, Mohawk, new boat; 3, Statesman.

WATER WORKS.—We are pleased to learn that the Councils have made a purchase of another lot for the erection of a second Engine, to supply the reservoir with water. It seems to us that they have acted with sound judgment, and a true spirit of economy in this matter. Although the single engine can readily supply a much greater amount of water than is necessary, yet it is liable to accident, and the want of the pure, wholesome water of the Allegheny, for a very few weeks, would be an evil to be seriously deplored. The erection of another engine will render the occurrence of such deficiency altogether improbable.

We are also pleased to learn that the revenue from the water works, during the past year, equaled the most sanguine anticipations.

SENATOR BUCKNER OF MISSOURI.—We have given a considerable portion of our columns to-day to the testimony of this ruffian, in relation to the attack upon Mr. Stanberry. It will be observed that the editor of the National Gazette doubted whether the Globe's report of this testimony was correct; that editor could not believe that any man, much less a Senator, could cooly stand by and permit an assassin to beat a peaceable citizen until he thought he was dead. Mr. Walsh, however, was mistaken, the amiable and respectable Senator from Ohio. Mr. Ewing, gives an account of a private conversation with the ruffian from Missouri, which corroborates, at least in this particular, the Globe's report of Buckner's testimony.

It seems that Buckner's conduct has excited much disgust in Philadelphia, we do not wonder at it, the population must be brutalized indeed, where such a feeling was not excited. For Houston's conduct, some apology may be found in the violence of an undisciplined temper which would momentarily be increased even by the attack itself. But for the cold blooded indifference of a man who could stand by and permit such a brutal attack, nay, not only permit it, but note and mark down in his memory even the minutest incidents of the occurrence, (and he must have done so, or perjured himself,) no expression of disgust and abhorrence can be too strong.

JACKSONISM.—Surely no civilized country was ever before so distracted by disputes, dissensions, and broils, as has this country been since the full bloom of Jacksonism. The readers of our papers can scarcely become acquainted with all the details of one controversy, before another of a more violent and desperate character ensues.—"The tactics of Nashville," as Duff Green calls them, were indeed first introduced at Washington towards the close of the late administration, when Jarvis made the assault on young Mr. Adams in the Capitol. After General Jackson came into power, several minor affairs, too tedious to mention, occurred. At length, however, the Calhoun controversy took place; then came the breaking up of the cabinet, the intended assault or assassination of Ingham by Eaton, and the challenge of Berrien and Ingham; then the taming of Forsyth by Branch, the backing out of Hoffman, and the degradation of Saunders; then the cowardly vaporing of Webb; and last, (we mean last heard from,) the attack upon Stanberry.

In all these dissensions and broils, the Jacksonites alone are concerned; the opposition have no "act or part in them," but are mere spectators. Previous to the late election, all these men united in pursuit of the spoil, as Senator Marcy called it, but the game being run down, the hounds have now nought to do but to snarl and bite at each other. We do not intend to permit this brief summary of the dissensions which have characterised tha present administration to pass as a mere unprofitable relation, we think it well adapted "to point a moral."

If bad men can thus unite to put down a virtuous administration, surely good men should not, cannot, honestly, refuse to co-operate to expel from office a set of rulers who, by their own broils and jealousies, have kept the country in an uninterrupted state of distraction from the moment they came into power. To Pennsylvanians, particularly, we say—will you persist in your support of Mr. Clay, when you know that his prospects here are utterly hopeless—when you must be satisfied that two thirds of the votes given to him, will be so many lost to the opposition to the present incompetent Chief Magistrate. When it is manifest that the vote of this state must be given either to General Jackson or Mr. Wirt, will you, can you, as honest, patriotic men, remain neutral or vote a dead ticket?—To such of our readers as are unacquainted with the character and worth of William Wirt, we recommend a careful perusal of an article in another part of our paper, which appeared in the Pittsburgh Statesman, in the summer of 1831.

REPROOF.—The Jackson and Johnson men, or the Van Buren men in disguise, who recently held a meeting in this city, seem to receive but little favor at Washington. By the following extract from the Globe, it seems that although that paper, by the special request of the Pittsburgh meeting, published a portion of the proceedings of that meeting, yet it omitted the most material resolution; thus, giving the strongest proof of disapprobation of the conduct of the Pittsburgh meeting. We presume that after the receipt of this official rebuke immediate measures were taken by the offenders here to assemble another meeting, for the purpose of making a public confession of their misconduct, of humbling themselves before the great official, imploring forgiveness, and of giving solemn promises never to offend again.

"The above remark of the American Sentinel, is evidently intended to make the impression in Pennsylvania, that the Globe has denounced 'the fifth of March Convention,' because it republished, at the request of a Pittsburgh meeting, certain resolutions passed by it, favorable to Col. Johnson.—The Editor of the Sentinel, if he had been honest, would have drawn a very different conclusion from the republication in question. We omitted the resolution, 'denouncing the fifth of March Convention,' and in doing so, gave the strongest proof that we disapproved of the course of the Pittsburgh meeting, in denouncing the Convention."

THE DIFFERENCE.—Our readers will probably think Mr. Stanberry has been hardly used. Having been most cruelly beaten by Houston, for words spoken in debate, process was issued by the House of Representatives to bring his assailant before that house for examination. The investigation is commenced, and soon takes such a course, that a spectator who had no knowledge of the commencement of it, would suppose that the true question before the house was not, whether Houston had been guilty of a contempt, but whether Mr. Stanberry had borne the brutal beating he had received with the philosophy of a Stoic.

During the whole time that Houston was abusing Mr. Stanberry, this vile ruffian, Buckner, coolly stood by and permitted Houston to continue his blows until his revenge was glutted; but not satisfied, even with this, he had taken frequent opportunities to relate the occurrence, adding such coloring as was calculated to throw discredit on Mr. Stanberry; and even on the trial, as he was giving evidence, he seemed to take a pleasure in adding circumstances, calculated to exhibit the injured person in a disadvantageous light.

Mr. Stanberry, under the excitement created by the whole conduct of the Missouri---we were going to say bear, but we will not disgrace that animal by the comparison----gives utterance to his feelings in strong language, and is promptly compelled to apologize. He must atone at once for the contempt of which he was guilty by his words, but must wait patiently to see the dignity of the house, which was so grossly violated by brutal blows upon his person, asserted.

Ross Wilkins, Esq.—The nomination of this gentleman to a Judgeship in Michigan, has been confirmed by the Senate.

From the Pittsburgh Statesman.

"WM. WIRT.—The nomination of this distinguished gentleman for the office of Vice President, in conjunction with that of Henry Clay, for the Presidency, affords real and unaffected gratification. Mr. Wirt has, for a long time, been a prominent object in the admiring gaze of the people of America, and occupied a large space in their affectionate regards; and we feel assured there is not a liberal or enlightened man, in any section of this broad and free republic, who will not hail his election to the Vice Presidency with feelings of pleasure for his individual elevation, and proud satisfaction in the permanency of their country's glory and honor, which this elevation will have a tendency to ensure. In whatever aspect we view Mr. Wirt, whether in the circle of private life, which his virtues both endear and adorn: or in the faithful, honest, talented and enlightened discharge of his public duties, he alike commands respect, esteem, and admiration. In the private intercourse of life, there are few men more universally and more deservedly beloved. His cultivated intellect, the blandishments of his manners, and the goodness of his heart, render him alike pre-eminent, and invest whatever he says or does, with a fascination entirely irresistible. His public acts are open to the investigation and scrutiny of all. Sustaining himself with decision and fortitude, under the most trying circumstances of his professional career, which was at once brilliant and arduous; consistent, uniform, and undeviating in his principles; his political course exhibiting no variations, no vagaries—he presents the impress of a strong and powerful mind, regulated and controlled by the most unblemished and unquestionable rectitude and integrity. Indeed, Mr. Wirt could not be otherwise. Raised up in the very lap of Republicanism---contemplating, as it was his daily habit, and as his opportunities permitted him, the fairest models of genius and patriotism, which our country has exhibited, imbibing in his infancy his mental aliment from the purest fountains---lisping the rudiments of his political creed from the living lips of Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe,—we say he could not well be other than what he is.

"Early in life he devoted himself to the study of the law, a profession which, while it can claim such men in its fraternity, must be entitled to the respect of the public. He was yet but young in the labors of his calling, when he distinguished himself at the Virginia bar, which was considered one of the ablest in America; verifying the maxim that honesty and capability, however forbidding the auspices under which they are introduced, eventually work their way to greatness. A sound and well read constitutional lawyer—a powerful, accomplished, and fascinating orator, his qualifications pointed him out with a finger of light, as one who may be relied upon in any emergency where talents and integrity were necessary to insure success. Indeed, so high was the opinion which Mr. Monroe entertained of him, and so well satisfied was he of his ability and worth, that one of his first official acts, on his induction to office, was to tender him the situation of Attorney General. This office he held for about twelve years, under the successive administrations of Mr. Monroe, and Mr. Adams. To this and to every other period of his life, which has come within the public observation, we can refer as evidence of the truth of all we have said of him. The weal of his country was his 'polar star;' and every act of his public life pointed, with the fidelity of the unerring needle, to this magnet of every patriot's attraction."

The following extract is a part of the Washington Globe's report of the testimony of Mr. Buckner, Senator from Missouri, in the case of Houston, before the House of Representatives. We can scarcely believe it possible that any man would have stood by when such an assault was committed, and have abstained from interfering until he thought that the prostrate victim was "badly hurt, or perhaps killed."—Nat. Gaz.

"As Stanberry approached nearer, he appeared to halt in his place. Houston asked if that was Mr. Stanberry; he replied, very politely, and bowing at the same time, 'Yes, sir,' then, said Houston, you are the damned rascal; and with that struck him with a stick which he held in his hand. Stanberry threw up his hands over his head and staggered back, his hat fell off, and he exclaimed 'Oh, don't.' Houston continued to follow him up, and continued to strike him: After receiving several severe blows, Stanberry turned, as I thought to run off. Houston at that moment sprung upon him in the rear, Stanberry's arms hanging down apparently defenceless.

He seized him and attempted to throw, but was not able to do so. Stanberry carried him about on the pavement some little time; whether he extricated himself, or Houston thrust him from him, I am not able to determine. I thought he thrust him from him: as he passed him, he struck him and gave him a trip, Stanberry fell: when he fell he still continued to halloo; indeed he hallooed all the time pretty much, except when they were scuffling.—I saw Stanberry, after having received several blows, put out both hands in this way, he then lying on his back. I did not discover what was in his hands, or if any thing was; but I heard a sound like the snapping of a gun lock, and I saw particles of fire. Houston appeared to take hold of Stanberry's hands, and took something from them, which I could not see. After that, Houston stood up more erect, still beating Stanberry with a stick over the head, arms, and sides; Stanberry still kept his hands spread out. After Houston's giving him several other blows, he lay on his back and put up his feet; Houston then struck him elsewhere. Mr. Stanberry, after having received several blows, ceased to halloo, and lay, as I thought, perfectly still. All this time I had not spoken to either of the parties or interfered in any manner whatever. I now thought Stanberry was badly hurt or perhaps killed, from the manner in which he lay. I stepped up to Houston to tell him to desist, but without being spoken to, he quit of his own accord."

The Jury, in the case of MINA, received the charge of the Court on Friday evening, 27th ult., about six o'clock, and after an absence of between two and three hours, returned with a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.—Poulson.

He took with him a blue tight-bodied coat, partly worn, with gilt buttons; one pair new black mixed cassinet pantaloons, and one pair of black worsted or bombazine ditto; one light blue cassinet waistcoat; one striped swansdown ditto, and a new pair of pegged bootees, together with other clothes not recollected. He has a brother living in Mobile, (engineer on the steam boat Isabella,) and has often said he would like to go there. He has been much in the habit of reading plays, and frequently associated with play actors: in all probability his object is to join with some traveling players.

The above reward will be given to any person who will apprehend and secure the said apprentice so that the subscribers may get him again. The public are cautioned against harboring him, under the penalty of the law.

Edgeworth Ladies' Boarding School,

BRADDOCKSFIED, NEAR PITTSBURGH,

Will recommence its engagements on the first Monday of October next.

THE increased and increasing approbation given to this institution cannot fail to produce a corresponding zeal and energy, and a desire to secure a settled good opinion. At this time very many additions have been made, for the convenience, comfort, and well doing of the pupils.—In so large a field as is open for education, understood in its true and extensive sense, there must be room for continual culture. Unabated will be the effort to do the utmost possible to meet so responsible a charge as the care of youth, and to this effort will be added the aid experience brings.—With little observation, in every succeeding month, somewhat is seen to revise and improve.

Edgeworth Seminary has been now of several years standing, and, disclaiming all egotism, it is only the fact to say that experience enables it to offer rather an increase than a diminution of means to give satisfaction.

The health enjoyed by the inmates, and beauty of situation of Braddocksfield Mausion, are well known to visiters, but for information of strangers, it is necessary to state, that in both particulars terms too flattering cannot easily be used.

To instruct, coercive means are not employed—reference is made to the heart as well as the head. Pains are taken to inculcate, that to be great, it is an indispensable to be virtuous; and as the worth of knowledge is only to be estimated by its tendency to right action, the study of every branch, and the proportion of time given to it, will be made subservient and tributary to useful moral and religious improvement.

Sabbath day engagements must not be interrupted unnecessarily. Pupils living at a distance, or from any cause, disposed to make Braddocksfield, during the vacation, their home, are invited to do so, and no additional charge is made.

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.
